ORDER

On September 10, 2020, the Court received a letter from pro se Plaintiff Wilbert K.A. Turner. (See Docket Entry No. 88.) In his letter, Plaintiff, who is currently incarcerated at the Metropolitan Correctional Center (“MCC”), reports that it is a “common practice for [MCC] staff to open and read legal correspondence from the Court,” as well as to “cut[ ] through them, which makes it difficult to read.” Plaintiff’s letter attaches the last envelope he received from the Court, which is stamped “LEGAL MAIL – SPECIAL MAIL – OPEN ONLY IN PRESENCE OF INMATE,” as well as “Notice: Opened As General Correspondence. For Special Mail Requirements See 28 CFR 540.19.”

Plaintiff is advised to follow the procedures of his institution concerning the submission of grievances. To the extent Plaintiff wishes to pursue a separate legal action arising out of the MCC’s allegedly improper opening of his legal mail, he is advised to contact the Court’s pro se intake unit, at: United States District Court of the Southern District of New York,
